I've always had a strong connection with the fiery enthusiasm of Leo... probably because of the fire of my sun sign Sagittarius. With a large number of sun events happening at the moment, its an appropriate time to remind us that the sun is the ruler of Leo on all levels personal , soul and spirit - Leo being the only sign to have the same ruler on all levels. Just as the sun "rules" the sky and with its light and heat and nurtures and protects our earthly realm and our solar system, so is the sign of Leo connected to the royalty and service in the domains of Earth.

Leo is a big energy and is a wonderful sign to have at this time of year, for here in the southern hemisphere it is that time after winter when we are just beginning to be able to sense our emergence out of the watery Cancerian winter. Things are starting to bud and swell and the light is noticeably longer.

The idea of Leo as the ruler particularly of our personal self, helps us to understand the importance of the development of this self (the personality as it is called in esoteric language), in our journey into integration and spiritual development. Many people attempt to journey into spirit without ensuring they have adequate vessels to take them where they want to go . Our personal self is such a vehicle and if we have not done enough work our physical body , our feelings and our emotions and blended them together to make up an integrated and well-functioning personality, we are like Icarus, likely to crash because he flew too near the sun in a vehicle that was not suitable.

August the 2nd is a cross quarter feast in the pagan wheel of the year. It is called Imbolc (ewe's milk) and is also called Brigit's Festival. In the Celtic world , large fire wheels are often rolled down hills and the hearth fires are examined for messages left by Brigit on Her night, for Brigit is triple goddess of many things but her special energy is of the fire and the sun. The cross-quarter feast marks the halfway point between the Solstices and Equinoxes so we are exactly half way between mid-winter and the Spring equinox. On the 24-hour clock it is equivalent to 3am - not yet dawn but no longer is it the darkness of midnight.

A good exercise at this time of year is to become aware of the growing light in nature and contemplate how we like nature can grow into fullness and how we can complete and grow the vehicle of our personal self into fullness, so we are able to safely journey into the stars (Spirit). Sit in the sun or by your fire and contemplate all the gaps in your personality in an observational not negative way. Your soul is like your inner sun so you can imagine the sun of your soul protecting you and encouraging you to grow and fill all these personal gaps with its light and love. Imagine that by the summer solstice your goal will be realized.

When you have completed this send the light of your soul/sun around the world and bless all dark places with Light and love and growth. Feel gratitude for everything especially Nature's promise of nurturing and growth.

I look forward to talking more when we come together

Love Janet
